Preface

"Education has individual as well as social aspects" --- Plato.

Infact, the discipline of Political Science deals with every aspect of public life - individual and social. Even Mahatma Gandhi said that politics is like a snake coil from which no individual can escape. Realising its importance in individual life and to bring awareness among students and community, the Department of Political Science had formed the "Political Science Forum" in 2015, February, under which various activities like projects, Guest, Lectures etc. would be conducted from time to time. The schedule would be prepared for a period of five years. This book is a part of those activities. It is a pleasure to publish the first edition of the book with the title "from the faculty of the Political Science Department of our college.

Any suggestions and constructive criticism regarding the improvement of the forum from the teachers, students community members and well wishers, are most welcome. ○

Editorial

Mahatma Gandhi stated that what is really needed to make democracy function is not knowledge of facts, but right education. This book published under the auspices of the Political Science Forum is a collection of various articles on political issues that would impart knowledge not only of facts but also of the values with which our society is progressing day-by-day. The book includes topics like child labour, reformation of criminals into law-abiding citizens., India's relations with neighbours, women Empowerment, ethnicity etc.

The editor is indebted to all the contributors who have opened down their writings, the treasure of whose knowledge has been the source of materials for this book.

Last but not the least, I would like to express my gratitude to my colleagues and well wishers without which the book would not have seen the light of the day.

Any suggestions and constructions criticism are most welcome, as it would be an encouragement for further development of the book.
